ATLANTA, NOVEMBER 16, 1884.

INDICATIONS for the south Atlantic states: fair weather, clearing on the North Carolina coast, northerly winds, stationary temperature.

BLAINE says the committee did it. The honest vote of the country did it.

The prince of Wales's son is a modest youth. He wants only $50,000 a year plus.

Wise editors all over the country are laying columns of censure upon President Cleveland.

HENRY LEVING's business this season shows a decided falling off from last year's figures. America sighs for a new sensation.

FRANK HUND is sad to be preparing a speech to be delivered at the coming session of congress, in which he will urge democratic harmony on the tariff question, and will cut himself loose from the extreme low tariff of the party.

The New York Sun is lecturing both national committees. It is inclined in the Sun to raze the already tortured feelings of the republicans and as for the democrats they are too happy to be in the least affected by Penn's inaptitude.

The impression is very general throughout the country that Cleveland will certainly number among his cabinet the Hon. Allan Thurman as secretary of state, and General George B. McClellan as secretary of war. No better selections could be made for these positions.

"The Horn" of New York says the south will be recognized in President Cleveland's cabinet. Referring to the southern leaders in this connection it says: "Of these we consider Senator Brown, Governor Colquitt, Mr. Reagan or Mr. Lamar the most available."

The Philadelphia Press console its readers by the announcement that in this trying hour it should be remembered that the republicans gained a glorious victory in Westmoreland county. We have no idea where Westmoreland stands, but its people have our sympathies all the same.

The New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette has made the alarming discovery that Tom Nast "has lost strength and originality" since he has been holding up Blaine to the ridicule and contempt of the honest voters of the country. Nast will weep when he reads that cruel criticism.

AMBITION may be "a glorious cheat," but fame is sweet. It is impossible for the sternest cynic to contemplate unmoved the picture presented at Lexington the other day, when the blushing belles of the blue grass pressed eagerly about Maud S. and pleaded for the dear privilege of rubbing her 2,000 nose.

John Logan's luck is hard indeed. Beaten twice for vice-president, he finds his hope of remaining in the senate after the 4th of March dependent on the breaking of a dead tie in the Illinois legislature. To increase his discomfiture some of the republican leaders are advocating the throwing overboard of Logan and the bestowal of the caesar nomination on Bob Lincoln. They say Lincoln would have a showing to win, but that Logan could hardly command even his party's vote, and never could win the independent strength necessary to an election.

THE OFFICIAL RESULT DECLARED. At 2:30 on yesterday the official canvass of New York county was concluded. By the official count Cleveland had carried the state by over 1,200 plurality. He is therefore president-elect of the United States.

The CONSTITUTION has maintained that Cleveland was elected, since the morning after the election. It has never wavered in this belief. Steadily and without a flicker, we have stood by this position, and through evil as well as good report we have led the doubtful, applauded the hopeful, supported the weak, argued with the cranks and whooped with the joyful. Our faith was based on a thoughtful study of the campaign, on our special advices, and on our deductions from the figures as they came in. The result, therefore, is not news to us and to our readers. But since it comes this morning in official shape, some truths may be stated as timely:

1st. The settlement of the election without long delay or uncertainty without the possibility of an armed collision will revive business, restore confidence and start the spring tide.

2d. Whatever may be the result of Cleveland's election on the country at large, it will be immediately and definitely beneficial to the south. It will wipe out the "prejudice" that has existed against the south. It will stop the "bloody shirt" slanders with which strangers looking for homes or investment have always been met in the north. It will remove the last bit of irritation between the races. It will quiet the apprehension and uneasiness of the negroes who have been taught that democratic success meant chains and slavery again. It will settle serious problems at home, and it will open the way for capital and immigration.

3d. It will solidify the south and hold it solid. A people that for twenty-four years of defeat have been true to principles, will not forsake them in the first years of success. This is as it should be. Those of our people who talk of hearing no more of the solid south, do not speak advisedly. There is no hope for the prosperity of this section, no peace for either race, save in the clear, unmistakable domination of the white race. There is no wisdom, save in the white people of the south standing squarely and solidly together on a platform of conservative government and equal rights to all men. Whenever the white people of the south split into factions, and stand, with the negroes between them holding the balance of power, and each faction bidding for their votes, then we shall have lost more than Cleveland's election has gained us.

One thing is certain. Mr. Seney will re-establish himself in the confidence of those who do not know him, as firmly as he now stands in the confidence of those who know him best. He will rebuild his fortunes, and he will then recall the adulation of many who now pass by him. It appears that he depends largely for his future on his investment in the East Tennessee and Virginia system, much of which rests on Georgia. It will be highly, indeed, if the rapid growth and the cordial patronage of this state, that he has helped to largely and of which he has known so well, should be the basis on which his new fortune shall be built. At all events, Mr. Seney is heartily welcomed to Georgia. He will find here thousands of strangers who are his friends—and from thousands of hearts, way apart from his life and his knowledge, prayers will go up for his happiness and his prosperity.

GEORGIA'S CAPITOL AND GEORGIA MAR-

BLE.

We fail to see the exact point of Mr. Blaine's resolution, which proposes to uphold the contract made by the capital commissioners for the building of our state capitol. It appears to be a reflection on the governor, on the commissioners, and an attempt to force a readjustment of things.

We hope the resolution will not prevail.

The capital question has long been an irritating and troublesome one. It occupied a large part of several sessions, and cost the state heavily. At length a bill was passed, representing the deliberate judgment of the people. It proposed to build a capitol for one million dollars, and commissioners were appointed to carry the work through.

This commission met. It advertised its plans thoroughly. It asked for specific bids. It received them, and found they were all too high. It then readvertised for bids, and secured one that met every requirement of the law. This bid it accepted. The contract under the bid was closed, the bond given and the work begun.

This is now proposed to uproot all this for the purpose of seeing if Georgia marble or granite can be used in building the capitol. The CONSTITUTION yields to no one in its desire to see the resources of Georgia developed. No one can regret more than we do that our capitol is to be built of outside material. But the marble men have had two fair bids at the capitol. If they could build it now within the limits of the million dollars, they should have been able to do it then. A contract is a contract. The state is solemnly bound to the contractors, who are now at work, and it cannot evade its obligation.

If the legislature wishes to add a quarter of a million dollars, or whatever is necessary, to substitute marble for limestone we should be glad to see it done. We should rejoice in it. But we do protest against this attempt to open a troublesome question already settled.

We appreciate Mr. Hall's patriotic motive, and shall be pleased to join him in asking the legislature to add $200,000 to the appropriation, so the commissioners can substitute marble for limestone. But there is no use in doing anything less than this!

THE FRANCHISE BILL.

The bill to extend the ballot to about two million farm laborers, is again before the house of lords. It went through the house of commons without difficulty. The home rulers supported it, and the entire liberal party stood by it. The friends of Mr. Ward supported it because it will increase the power of the Irish people, and all the reports of defection in the liberal ranks were unfounded.

Just what policy the tories in the upper house will adopt is not known, but it is thought they will again demand that it shall be accompanied by a redistribution scheme.

If they do this, they will squarely lock horns with Mr. Gladstone, who defiantly says he will not introduce a redistribution bill until the franchise bill has passed both houses and received the royal assent. The tories are encouraged to stand by their guns by the result of the election in South Warwickshire, where a conservative candidate was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of General Charles Lee, Washington's second in command. Washington ordered Lee to advance and attack, unless "there should be very powerful reasons to the contrary, assuring him of prompt and efficient support. In a short time he learned to his astonishment that Lee's division had not met the enemy and was in full retreat. Eiding up to Lee, Washington thundered out: "What means this ill-timed prudence?" Lee replied, "Sir, I know of no one who exhibits more energy and dash than General Lee, and I have no reason than it frees Washington from a social ruler that would have made official offices rebels." Lee's division to this day earn honest living. Broken down back politicians who are too proud to work, but not proud enough to refrain from begging have in this old gentleman an example worth following.

The celebration of the battle of Monmouth at Preakness, New Jersey, has elicited many interesting reminiscences of that famous fight. The Americans very nearly lost the battle on account of the singular conduct of General Charles Lee, Washington's second in command. Washington ordered Lee to advance and attack, unless "there should be very powerful reasons to the contrary, assuring him of prompt and efficient support. In a short time he learned to his astonishment that Lee's division had not met the enemy and was in full retreat. Eiding up to Lee, Washington thundered out: "What means this ill-timed prudence?" ABOUT THE CITY PRISON.

G. W. HAMMOND Paid Out—Captain Aldridge's Return—Captain Conch Still Ill. G. W. Hammond, who was fined twenty-five dollars and cost by Recorder Anderson for whipping his wife, was yesterday released from the city prison. His fine was paid by his sister and his mother. Hammond says he hopes never to see his wife again.

Captain Aldridge has returned from New Orleans, where he has been for the past month and has resigned his post of duty.

Late last night Captain Parish found Emma White, a white woman, on the lower end of Whitehall street, in a state of intoxication. She was in the city prison, when it was discovered that she had been married and that it was black as steel. The woman was not presented a most singular appearance.

Two men having the same names were yesterday given cells in the city prison, James Jones with his lawyer and James Jones a "suspect."

The city council will convene in regular session to-morrow afternoon.

SEVERAL prominent Atlanta enterprises will be conspicuous at the New Orleans exposition.

A brilliant improvement in Atlanta choirs has lately been noticed by Atlanta congregations.

CONCERTS LONGLEY has gone to Palatka, Fla. He will be absent only a few days.

The city election takes place on Wednesday, November 21, two weeks from next Wednesday.

LANG, the catcher, and Henke, the third base man, of the Atlanta baseball club, are in the city.

The third ward people are preparing a long petition to the general council for a water main to be laid.

Mr. J. L. WHALEY died yesterday at his residence on the McDonough road, after a brief spell of pneumonia.

ATLANTA girls are beginning to date on tennis. Prejudice will be the great parlor game for the winter.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. McGuire died yesterday afternoon at their residence on Plum street.

Mr. GRIFFIN was much better all day yesterday. In the afternoon he received several visitors, with whom he talked.

A GROUP picture of the Atlanta baseball nine, accompanied by a complimentary notice, is out in a New York illustrated weekly.

Born on Blane have been generally given up in the city. The men who had the sense to let on Cleland are several thousand.

The Atlanta street car company's horse that was injured by the bursting torpedo on Marietta street several nights ago will likely die.

GEORGE CLARK, a small white boy, was yesterday thrown from a buggy on Pryor street and sustained a fracture of his right arm below the elbow.

The Victory engine jumped the track last night under the Broad street bridge, and for a half hour or more the front of freight cars it was pulling blocked Pryor street crossing.

ATLANTA has the best observed Sundays to be seen anywhere. There are scores of churches filled with people every Sunday, and those who may say believe themselves.

The law office of Candler, Thomson & Candler in the Fifteen building at the corner of Broad and Marietta street is one of the handsomest in the city, and is unsurpassed for location.

SEVERAL new dances are ready for the present season. They are not strikingly different from the former styles of gyration, and can be mastered by a reasonable amount of application.

THURSDAY night Atlanta's society will have its hands full. Senator Brown will give a reception at Concordia hall, and the Capital City club will have the first of its series of dress receptions.

Mr. CHANAY will speak this evening on the "Book to Read It." He will conduct a course of studies of the Bible in the Church of Our Father on Wednesday evenings during the winter, beginning November 21.

THE NEW MODEL WATCH MADE BY J. P. STEVENS & CO. FACTORY ATLANTA, GA.

MEETINGS.

Notice.

Scotchmen and men of Scottish descent of Atlanta and vicinity are especially requested to meet on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, 111 Peachtree Street, for the purpose of making arrangements for an entertainment on the evening of St. Andrew's Day, November 30, to be held in the hall of the Atlanta Club, to raise funds for the benefit of the Scotchmen.

At the assembly at half past two o'clock sharp on to-morrow afternoon, November 17th, in Atlanta, will be a special uniform, or parade.

Also in Atlanta, on November 18th at seven o'clock sharp, full dress uniform, for a special drill.

Also in Atlanta, on November 18th, in the welfare and progress of the company, promptly with the above order, it may be at some person's house.

By order of HENRY JACKSON, E. W. REINHARDT, Captain Commanding, First Sergeant.

MEMBERS OF THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Members of Atlanta, No. 39, E. A. M. and all other Masons in the city in good standing, are requested to meet at the Masonic Hall, corner of Broad and Marietta streets, this Sunday, afternoon at 2 P.M., for the purpose of rendering their services for the funeral services of our late brother Lewis Whaley, son of the late Captain C. A. Whaley, a member of the Atlanta Lodge.

By order of W. M. Z. MOON, Secretary.

The Judge Lester place, No. 225 Whitehall street, at auction by Samuel W. Goode, Wednesday, the 26th instant.

May 18th.

The Madison Square theater closed their engagement. "My Blossom, the Fisherman's Daughter" in this city last night. The general opinion seems to be that it is one of the best of the plays Madison Square has sent here. It is rich in sentiment, touching in its simplicity, strong in character, and has a wide appeal to all that interest. It was Miss Georgia Cayvan's first appearance in Atlanta. There was a sympathy and interest in the play, and the audience was greatly pleased.

Also in Atlanta, on November 18th, in the welfare and progress of the company, promptly with the above order, it may be at some person's house.

By order of HENRY JACKSON, E. W. REINHARDT, Captain Commanding, First Sergeant.

SOCIAL GOSSIP.

THE FEATURES OF THE WEEK CHRONICLED.

Entertaining Our Company—The Movement of Our People Abroad—Marrying and Given in Marriage—Topics of Interest to Our Lady Readers—Theatrical Matters, Etc.

There is a pitiful lack of society news to be served up this week—stagnation in the social world. The political strife turned things topsy-turvy, and held the city in its grasp. But now the shadow has been taken from the polls which rather gloomed the nation's skies, and Cleveland is elected. Gone—

The dark and dreary fear.

Of some such monstrous crime.

As that which caused that odious year.

In Hayes' and Tilden's time.

The untutored have scored a victory, so the social ball can be started. People for can send out their cards and invitations for receptions and teas, and balls and dinners, theater parties and luncheons, and all the other forms of entertainments that aid to make a social season successful.

Dancing:

Does the society man of THE CONSTITUTION approve, or believe in it?—Lizzie.

Locks, speaks of its utility. Polite recommended it, and several learned the Athenian polka when an old man. They were very wise men. There must be something in it.

None:

There are many who are still willing one to preserve their invincibility—An Amazon Girl.

Health is the only preserver of juvenility. Cosmetics without exception are injurious. The skin is deadened by ointments and powders that fill the pores. This is a difficult matter to alter the countenance as to its shading itage.

Away From Home.

Mrs. M. Harper, of Atlanta, is visiting relatives in New York.

Mr. James M. Jenkins, of this city, is visiting relatives near Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Gholston, of Atlanta, were in Augusta during the week.

Miss Sallie Brown, daughter of Senator Brown, is visiting Mrs. John Ellis in Macon.

Our Guests.

Miss Carrie Greene, of LaGrange, is visiting friends in Atlanta.

Mrs. G. H. Winston, of LaGrange, is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. W. B. Higginbotham, of West Point, is visiting friends in Atlanta.

Home Again.

Miss Mary Davis, of Atlanta, is visiting friends in New York.

Mrs. F. S. King, of this city, is visiting friends in LaGrange.

Miss Jessie Willingham, of Atlanta, is visiting friends in Griffin.

Notes of Gastrology.

Red skinned apples make the nicest apple jelly. Chicken salad is a gastronomic horror now at a dinner party.

Bananas should be stuck in crystallized apples at dinner parties.

Invalids are now fed on baked milk. The milk is put in a glass jar, covered with paper on top and baked ten hours in the oven.

Hats are now made of whale bone, which, when set or soda, is taken about a quarter of an hour before dinner, it is often of benefit.

Home Again.

Colonel Robert Anderson and wife, of this city, returned from Knoxville, Tuesday.

Mrs. Rawson, who has been visiting relatives in Louisville, has returned to her home in Atlanta.

Mrs. Mihail, who has been visiting relatives in Newma, has returned to her home in Atlanta.

Colonel D. P. Ellis has returned to his home in Atlanta from a visit to relatives in Meriwether.

Fashion Items.

Velvet is by all odds the leading fabric of the season, and used in combination with all other materials.

A new perfume called "A. Lill's Sigh," known in the trade as "A. Lill's Sigh," is now on the market. The same price is $5 per pint, it produces an exquiste odor, very much like the perfume.

Dressmaking should be regarded as an art, and practised by educated women, properly trained in anatomy and physiology, taught to combine colors artistically and to study grace in form and beauty in design.

Lawn Tennis.

My heart is a tennis ball.

And when I strike it, it will rebound, I fly, I fall;

I tumble to your racket.

Aside from the exercise and pleasure of lawn tennis, it affords a healthy recreation. It is a great aid in the development of the muscles, and is a great exercise, more flexible; gives a pleasing and graceful appearance of firmness; and dexterous to the limbs; and it is good for the heart. The heart is supposed to become evaporated, or at least vitiated, and once in a frosty morning it is to be worn out; but the heart end to be a visible and lasting token of the covenant which can never be forgotten.

Cosmetics.

"Mary" asks THE CONSTITUTION what is the significance of the wedding ring?

Dean Somber so quickly characterized it as a sign of the love of wife, that it is a pure gold, signifying how noble and durable an affection is; the form is round, to imply that our love is round, and the ring is round, the place of it is on the fourth finger of the left hand, where the ancients thought there was a vein which carried the blood to the heart, where it may always be. It is said that a ring is a sign of love, where it may be least subject to be worn out; but the main end is to be a visible and lasting token of the covenant which can never be forgotten.

Personal and Otherwise.

What there is of Theo's dresses, is said to be of the finest material.

Philadelphia has a "professor" who "blanches" red roses, and makes them a fine brown felt.

Carnations of red plush are a new flower this year, and they are used to trim black velvet.

White bonnets trimmed with white plumage will fit the dress, bonnet for excellence the coming season.

Velvet Tan or Shantung.

From ten to twenty stiff, small wings are used to trim the new walking hats.

A pretty and ladylike hat is a fine brown felt.

The crown hats are fashionable for walking.

French ladies of fashion wear their bonnets to the church, and the formality of the dress.

The expense of a trousseau seen the artificial bows, with which the bonnets are decorated, by dropping into each of a drop of the oil of the flower.

The bonnets are to be worn out; but the refreshments were a single repeat of figs, grapes, oranges and other fruit, fish and coffee.
